

WORKING WITH CHILDREN CHECK (WWCC)

From 1 July 2019, people working or volunteering with children in South Australia must, by law, have a valid child-related clearance. WWCCs replace all other types of child-related employment screening checks. A WWCC will be valid for five years and if a WWCC is only being used for volunteering purposes, the volunteer will receive it for free.

You don't need a working with children check if you:

- ⇒ work for SA Police or the Australian Federal Police
- ⇒ are a parent or guardian volunteering with your own child (e.g. at school) and do not have close personal contact with other children, or participate in an organised overnight event (e.g. a school camp)

Working with Children checks are required for:

- parents or guardians attending overnight camps
- sports coaches who are not parents / guardians of a child in the team
- parent volunteers, if their own child is not involved in the service / activity

For more information: The DHS Screening Unit website (screening.sa.gov.au) includes information about: who needs a WWCC; how to apply for a WWCC; the WWCC screening process; information assessed as part of WWCC; checking progress of an application and legislation and policies.
